Re: United States v. Bryant De Los Santos, et al.
S1 07 Cr. 699 (HB)

Dear Judge Baer:

The Government respectfully submits this letter in advance of trial, to advise the Court of certain evidence the Government seeks to admit against the defendants at trial. Specifically, statements made against penal interest by an unindicted co-conspirator who is unavailable to testify at trial.

A. Statements Against Penal Interest/Statements to a Co-Conspirator

At trial, the Government intends to introduce a recorded telephone call between Din Celaj, an unindicted co-conspirator, and an unknown male ("U/M").¹ During this telephone call, Din Celaj discusses the robbery, and tells the U/M, among other things, that he attempted to commit the robbery because he trusted "Pete," referring to defendant Pedro Cabrera. (A copy of the transcript of this telephone call is attached as Exhibit A.) Celaj also admits, on this telephone call, that he and Cabrera "fucked up" and that the "number was outrageous," meaning the 25 kilograms of cocaine that they were going to steal. (See Ex. A at 1, 3, 4.) This telephone call will be admissible, either as nonhearsay because they are "statement[s] by a co-conspirator of a party during the course and in furtherance of the conspiracy" (Rule 801(d)(2)(E)) or as exceptions to the hearsay rule because they are statements against penal interest (Rule 804(b)(3)). In particular, the statements that the Government intends to elicit are statements made by Din Celaj, a co-conspirator, to an unidentified male, discussing the robbery. Further, Din Celaj, who is under indictment in a separate case, has asserted his Fifth Amendment right not to testify. (See Exhibit B). The Government believes that, both the contents of the statements themselves, as well as the fact that Din Celaj is an unavailable witness, fully satisfies the requirements of either or both of these hearsay rules.

1. Rule 801(d)(2)(E)

Rule 801(d)(2)(E) provides that a statement is "not hearsay if -- [it] is offered against a party and is -- a statement by a coconspirator of a party during the course and in furtherance of the conspiracy." To admit a statement pursuant to this rule, a district court must find two preliminary facts: first, that a conspiracy including the defendant and the declarant existed; and, second, that the statement was made during the course and in furtherance of that conspiracy. Bourjaily v. United States, 483 U.S. 171, 175 (1987); United States v. Gigante, 166 F.3d 75, 82 (2d Cir. 1999). A district court may consider the purported hearsay statement itself in assessing the existence of a conspiracy and whether the defendant and declarant were members therein. See Fed. R. Evid. 104(a); Bourjaily, 483 U. S. at 180-81; Gigante, 166 F.3d at 82. In addition, while "there must be some independent corroborating evidence of the defendant's participation in the conspiracy," United States v. Tellier, 83 F.3d 578, 580 (2d Cir. 1996), that independent evidence need not itself be admissible. See Fed. R. Evid. 104(a); Bourjaily, 483 U.S. at 178. The objective of the joint venture between the defendant and the declarant "need not be the crime charged in the indictment," United States v. Russo, 302 F.3d 37, 45 (2d Cir. 2002), cert. denied, 537 U.S. 1112 (2003), nor must it "be criminal at all," id. "Admissibility depends on the nature of the statement offered - in particular what objective it sought to advance-and whether the defendant was jointly engaged with the declarant in a conspiracy seeking that objective." Id. at 46.

The "independent" corroborating proof of the defendant's participation in the conspiracy may be "totally circumstantial," United States v. Terry, 702 F.2d 299, 320 (2d Cir. 1983) (citation omitted), and the court must view the evidence as a whole rather than consider individual items of independent proof in isolation, United States v. Di Palermo, 606 F.2d 17, 22 (2d Cir. 1979). Once a conspiracy has been proved to exist, the evidence needed "to link another defendant with it need not be overwhelming." United States v. Provenzano, 615 F.2d 37, 45 (2d Cir. 1980) (citation omitted). The requirement that the challenged statement be "in furtherance of" the conspiracy is satisfied if the statement's objective is "designed to promote or facilitate achievement of the goals of the conspiracy." United States v. Rivera, 22 F.3d 430, 436 (2d Cir. 1994). Statements between coconspirators that "provide reassurance, serve to maintain trust and cohesiveness among them, or inform each other of the current status of the conspiracy," further the conspiracy, United States v. Simmons, 923 F.2d 934, 945 (2d Cir. 1991), as do statements "that apprise a coconspirator of the progress of the conspiracy," United States v. Rahme, 813 F.2d 31, 36 (2d Cir. 1987). These prerequisites need be proved only by a preponderance of the evidence. United States v. Orena, 32 F.3d 704, 711 (2d Cir. 1994).

2. Rule 804(b)(3)

Rule 804(b)(3) provides an exception to the hearsay rule for out of court statements where (1) the declarant is "unavailable as a witness" and (2) the statement at the time of its making so far tended to subject the declarant to criminal liability that a reasonable person in the declarant's position would not have made the statement unless believing it to be true. Fed. R. Evid. 804(b)(3); United States v. Tropeano, 252 F.3d 653, 658 (2d Cir. 2001). . For the 804(b)(3) exception to apply, "the proponent must show (1) that the declarant is unavailable as a witness, (2) that the statement is sufficiently reliable to warrant an inference that a reasonable man in the declarant's position would not have made the statement unless he believed it to be true, and (3) that corroborating circumstances clearly indicate the trustworthiness of the statement." United States v. Katsougrakis, 715 F.2d 769, 775 (2d Cir. 1983) (internal quotations and modifications omitted). "Rule 804(b)(3) is founded on the commonsense notion that reasonable people, even reasonable people who are not especially honest, tend not to make self-inculpatory statements unless they believe them to be true." Williamson v. United States, 512 U.S. 594, 599 (1994).

In criminal cases, out-of-court statements must also satisfy the Confrontation Clause of the Sixth Amendment, which requires that nontestimonial statements must either fall within a

Hon. Harold Baer
 January 7, 2008

"firmly rooted hearsay exception" or possess "particularized guarantees of trustworthiness." Lilly v. Virginia, 527 U.S. 116, 124-25 (1999) (plurality opinion) (quoting Ohio v. Roberts, 448 U.S. 56, 66 (1980)); cf. Crawford v. Washington, 124 S. Ct. 1354, 1374 (2004) (reaffirming Roberts test for nontestimonial out-of-court statements). The Second Circuit has never explicitly held that the "statements against interest" exception of Rule 804(b)(3) qualifies as a "firmly rooted" hearsay exception, and so such statements are examined to see whether they possess sufficient "guarantees of trustworthiness" for admission. See, e.g., United States v. Matthews, 20 F.3d 538, 545 (2d Cir. 1994). The Second Circuit has repeatedly held that inculpatory statements to "allies" (generally girlfriends or co-conspirators) that simultaneously inculcate the non-declarant defendant - are admissible at trial against the defendant. See United States v. Sasso, 59 F.3d 341, 348-49 (2d Cir. 1995) (declarant's pre-arrest statements to female ally, which implicated himself and defendant equally in the crime, were admissible against defendant); United States v. Matthews, 20 F.3d 538, 545-46 (2d Cir. 1994) (same); United States v. Bakhtiar, 994 F.2d at 977-78 (declarant's recorded statements to co-conspirator-turned-CI in which he tried to come up with cover story to explain large sums of money that defendant had wired to declarant and CI over the course of the conspiracy were admissible against defendant); cf. United States v. Bryce, 208 F.3d 346, 351 (2d Cir. 2000) (affirming admission under residual hearsay exception of statements recorded on wiretap by declarant implicating himself and defendant in narcotics conspiracy because declarant did not know of recording and had no motive to lie).

The Government can represent that Din Celaj is "unavailable" because he has been subpoenaed and has informed the Government, through counsel, that he will not testify but will rather invoke their right against self-incrimination. See United States v. Williams, 927 F.2d 95, 98 (2d Cir. 1991) (holding that district court properly found co-conspirators to be unavailable where it accepted the prosecution's representations that it had contacted and been informed by attorneys for each of the co-conspirators that they all would invoke their Fifth Amendment privilege if called as witnesses, and noting that a ruling of unavailability under Rule 804(a)(1) "can be made, as in the instant case, with or without the witness being haled into court.").

CELAJ Alright, so my nigger, listen we'll go get you a car tomorrow.

U/M Losing weight. (Laughing)

CELAJ We'll go get you a car tomorrow, baby.

U/M Saturday, can we do it Saturday? Or does it has to be during the week?

CELAJ No it don't got to be during the week it can be Saturday.

U/M So we can do it Saturday cause I got a, yo by nine o'clock I'm gonna be upstate already.

CELAJ Alright so lets.

U/M And I'll be down, I'll be down about seven.

CELAJ Alright, holler at me when you get back down the way.

U/M Alright.

CELAJ We'll probably go out tomorrow, tomorrow night or something. A little get home, all the niggers got home. Big 300 got home, everybody.

U/M Yeah.

CELAJ Yeah, I was a little scared.

U/M They talk about they made, they made things man, that they, you know, that they was writing shit down man. Why you all niggers writing shit?

CELAJ Who's you all?

U/M Huh?

CELAJ What do you mean you all?

U/M Nah, not you. All I'm saying but they said the dudes were writing shit down. That they, that they, that they.

CELAJ Yeah them niggers (UI).

U/M That they, that they, they hit them with charges.

CELAJ Yeah. I know man, them niggers bugged out man. I told them niggers yo, don't say nothing. I told them in the car I said yo, I don't care what them niggers tell you they can't help you. Do not fucking talk to the cops. They can't do nothing for you. Don't talk to them. These niggers still talked to them.

U/M Yeah.

CELAJ They incriminated themselves, now the motherfuckers got fucking A1 felonies. They're stupid man.

U/M (U/I)

CELAJ I was wrecking, I see, you know I know they was writing statements? First they told me they wrote statements. Plus, I seen them niggers in, like when I was getting fingerprinted I can see through the window that they're over there recording everything the nigger is saying D. The nigger's 300, 300 pounds D.

U/M Huh. Come on man I don't (UI).

CELAJ Yeah but I, you know what I got scared of right?

U/M What?

CELAJ You hear me?

U/M What?

CELAJ I got scared cause the nigger, you know, I got scared cause they let this nigger leave, they let this nigger Pete leave right in front of my face and they were like you see your friend right. You see your friend, well he told everything that happened that's why he's going home right. But I know it was bullshit but, you know, I don't know that good. So I talked to, I talked to this nigger, I talked to 300 and I'm like yo, what up son. He's like yo, I don't know. I just know that nobody in here knows my name as 300 but Pete and them detectives said that Pete told them my name. So then I was like oh shit what the fuck. But D that made me, and I told 300 I said yo son, I said I could take ten years right now I said, I just don't, the only thing that would really kill me is if it's true about this nigger man. That's it. I just hope this nigger ain't say nothing, that's it. I don't care, I could do ten years, I just, I hope, like I was never expecting it from that nigger, smacking out of his mouth. I'm good. As long as that nigger is good, you know, as long as I ain't have to worry about him saying nothing I would have took ten years or more to cop out.

U/M Yeah but you know what it was with him right that he threw his thing out. They were doing it through the phones but they couldn't pin nothing on you because the shit that he had to call you he threw it away.

CELAJ No matter what they couldn't pin nothing on none of us because me and Pete never called none of them other dudes.

U/M Yeah. That's the whole thing but.

CELAJ So we're good.

U/M But he did call, Pete did, they called them on Pete's phone but Pete flipped his chip because he ran out of minutes.

CELAJ So (UI).

U/M (UI).

CELAJ I was right there I seen him.

U/M He threw it out and when his phone came in there were no calls from them.

CELAJ I know.

U/M So they couldn't put it together, that's why they was holding everybody's cells.

CELAJ I know. They didn't have my cell phone.

U/M You know.

CELAJ They didn't have my cell phone since (UI).

U/M Yeah they didn't have that.

CELAJ All my cell phones was in Pete's car.

U/M Yeah.

CELAJ Pine, my nigger, well I got to,

U/M I got away with the evidence man, so that, its wrapped up. Fuck them.

CELAJ I got the Rover now but the shit got a fucking flat in the back D, I don't know how it got a flat.

U/M The Range?

CELAJ Yeah I got, the back, the left tire in the back is fucking flat so I got to go put some air in it before I get home, alright.

U/M Alright man.

CELAJ Alright man, I love you man. Be easy, talk to you tomorrow my nigger.

U/M Alright, got love for you man.

CELAJ Alright.

U/M Be safe and be home B.

CELAJ Yeah.

U/M Alright my nigger.

CELAJ Bye.

U/M Later.

CELAJ Alright, later.
